Note: The admission staff are aware of the theatre schedule and timing of other procedures you may need to undergo prior to surgery. We will make every effort to keep your wait to a minimum.

Personalising your care

At St Andrew's, we strive to create a hospital environment in which people feel welcome, involved, respected and valued. A place where people feel they can be their whole selves, at all times. During your admission, please speak with a member of our team if there is anything we can do to facilitate a more welcoming environment for you. This may include use of your preferred name or pronouns.

Children undergoing surgery

Please dress your child in two piece pyjamas and bring a soft toy. For bottle fed infants, you will need to bring pre-prepared formula.

Children under the age of 14 must be supervised at all times by a parent, guardian or carer.

For children under 14 years we respectfully ask that one parent accompany their child and be available during the recovery stage.

If both parents choose to attend, please note that only one parent will be allowed up to the procedure rooms in the Day Surgery Centre at a time.

We understand that family units often consist of more than one child, however for the safety and privacy of yourself and others, we request only the child that is undergoing the operation attend the hospital. They will contact the nominated person and tell them the approximate time you will be ready to be collected. Please refer to page 7 of this booklet for information about car parking for patient collection.
- + Follow the post-procedural instructions given to you and contact your doctor or present to an Emergency Department should you have any post-procedural complications.

Patient rights

A right to health care

You have a fundamental right to adequate and timely health care. Sometimes this may not be at the healthcare facility you first attend as not all services are necessarily available everywhere. You can contribute to the right of access by trying to meet your appointments and telling the facility when you cannot.

A right to safe and high quality care

If you are unsure about what is happening to you or if you think something has been missed in your care, alert your healthcare provider. Let your provider know any circumstances that might make your health care riskier.

A right to be shown respect, dignity and consideration

You are entitled to receive care in a way that is respectful of your culture, beliefs, values and characteristics like age and gender. It is important to tell your healthcare provider of any changes in your circumstances. You should provide verbal consent prior to service or treatment prior to physical examination by a health practitioner which includes, but is not limited to: assistance with showering, cleaning or toileting and insertion of an intravenous cannula or administration of an injectable medication.

A right to be informed about services, treatment, options and costs in a clear and open way

Healthcare providers will tell you about the care you are receiving and help you understand what is happening to you. You can contribute to communication by being as open and honest as you can be. To understand the instructions given to you, you can ask questions if you would like more information. You can use interpreters if English is not your first language. Interpreter services are free and can be provided in person or by phone.

A right to be included in decisions and choices about care

You are encouraged to participate in decisions about your care. Ask questions if you are unsure about what is happening to you. Involve your family or carer if this makes you more comfortable and sure.

A right to privacy and confidentiality of provided information

You are able to see your records and ask for information to be corrected if it is wrong. In some situations your health information will need to be shared between healthcare providers. You can also contribute by respecting the privacy and confidentiality of others.

A right to comment on care and having concerns addressed

Healthcare providers want to solve problems quickly, but they need to be told about the problem first. If you have any suggestions about how services could be improved please let staff know. The procedures used by the health service organisation to comment about your care should be made available to you. You can provide verbal or written comments about the procedures and your experiences.

Your responsibilities as a patient are:

- + To provide the hospital and your doctor(s) accurate/complete information about your medical history, (physical or psychological), medications, allergies, and current health condition and special needs for discharge from hospital.
- + To clarify and discuss any aspect of your care you do not understand with your healthcare team.

- + To accept financial responsibility for all services rendered.
- + Adhere to infection control measures: patients and visitors should practice good hand hygiene, and follow infection control guidelines to prevent the spread of infection.
- + Stay 1.5m away from others if possible
